The Training offers a practical approach to identifying and addressing unconscious bias and its negative impact in the workplace; as well as providing strategies that promote inclusion. The trainers will lay the groundwork for the Training by defining unconscious bias, helping us to recognize our personal identity and its influence on our biases, raising our awareness about the impact our biases have on our and our co-workers' work performances, and developing strategies for inclusion and implementing a DE&I program in the workplace and in our personal lives. The session trainers are Nidhi Turakhia, Executive Vice President, of Allied Alloys; and Willie Johnson, CEO of Willie Johnson Communications.
